

A spiritual experience

While Rick Fleury aims to simplify his approach, he also reaches for more complex challenges in terms of scale, composition and emotion. "I am drawn to the essence of a moment's beauty: the rare light as it moves across a meadow, the shadows or reflections it leaves behind; the subtle variations of color as they change with the seasons and time of day; the movement of grasses, water and sand; the solitude of a wandering low tide or a sun setting for what seems to be a last time."

RICK FLEURY

Born and raised in Massachusetts, Fleury has dedicated his professional life to painting coastal landscapes of New England. He was honored by the Cape Cod Museum of Art with a solo show in 2006. The Executive Committee of the Copley Society of Art, the oldest non-profit art association in the United States, sought him out in his Cape Cod studio and invited him to become a member.
